CONSOLIDATION.

We give place this morning to a correspondent signed "Shaler," who opposes the consolidation of the cities and suburbs with great zeal. Although we dissent from most of the positions of the writer, some of which are monstrously extravagant, we have no hesitation about giving him a hearing on this the most important local question that has ever agitated this community. Let it be well discussed; and we will only say at present to the opponents of the measure that possibly there is quite as much honesty of purpose, virtue, truth, and perhaps wisdom, on the part of those who favor as those who oppose the measure. It is a question upon which the best men may honestly and properly differ. "Shaler" seems to have forgotten this; and yet, owing to our regard for the writer, we give his article a place.

A GOOD MAN GONE.—It will be seen from our obituary column that RICHARD BARD, a well known and highly esteemed leather merchant of this city, died yesterday morning. We publish elsewhere a brief sketch of his character, contributed by a Reverend and venerable friend who has known him from childhood. Mr. BARD was distinguished chiefly, in the business community, for his common sense and his uncommon honesty. We can express no better wish for his survivors than that they should so emulate his virtues while living that they can possess his faith and hope when they come to die.

THE Genius of Liberty, of Uniontown, Pa., an organ supported by the Democracy of Fayette county, and one devoted to the cause of Sharswood against Williams, comes to us this week with a charitable and generous allusion to the martyred President LINCOLN. It says:

"The contributors to the Lincoln monument, are demanding to know what has become of their money. No matter what has become of it. It cannot be put to a more disgraceful purpose than building a monument to such a man as Lincoln, whose life was a withering curse to his country."

SOME of the Nicolson pavements in Cincinnati did not turn out satisfactorily, and they have had an investigation into the manner in which it was put down. Some of the witnesses who assisted in the work testified that some of it was put down in mud and water, and that it was impossible to nail the strips on account of the water. We think from what we read that that failure does no discredit to that mode of paving if properly done.

THE Cincinnati Gazette remarks:

"Secretary Stanton remains in undisturbed possession of the War Department, and is in receipt of great encouragement and approval from the loyal men throughout the country. It has now come to light that the secret of the President's enmity to him is because he was mainly instrumental in causing Congress to meet in summer session, and thus thwarted some pet and dangerous schemes which he had information the President intended to consummate in case of a long adjournment."

GENERAL NEWS.

—One man boasts in Indiana, that he gets a new wife and a new divorce every quarter.

—Five school houses and two thousand four hundred bar rooms are the latest Chicago improvements.

—Reverses in business and four feet of rope were the causes of death in the case of a Milwaukee merchant.

—The best definition of cholera is Beecher's last. He says that cholera is God's opinion of nastiness.

—Consider well before you take a glass of brandy and water, says Mr. Prentice, the subject is a good deal "mixed."

—House rents have slightly declined in New York, and one of the papers of that city reports that many houses are empty.

—Nine Chicago editors and nine printers—not a man on either side ever having played before, are to have a grand game at base ball this week at Dexter Park, "for the belt."

—Only three wholesale firms in Louisville last year did a business exceeding $1,000,000. The heaviest house in the city made sales amounting to $1,400,000. Nineteen firms sold between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

—Steel boilers, it is said, are coming into use on French locomotives. Twelve express engines, with steel boilers, are employed on one railway leading out of Paris, fifteen on another, and several on other roads.

—Dr. Raimbert, a French Doctor, practices a new method of introducing medicine into the animal economy, viz: by the nostrils. He has done so with morphine, which, it seems, introduced in that way, will cure violent headaches.

—The little county of Jersey, Ill., with an era of only fifty-three square miles, raised last season one million bushels of corn, and this year will doubtless exceed these figures. Its yield of wheat generally borders on the marvelous, both in quality and quantity.

—Charleston is recovering from the effects of the war. The newspapers of that city state that the "burnt district" is being improved with great rapidity, and in other parts of the city old houses are being torn down and replaced by new and more modern structures.

—Yancy, a colored inmate of the jail at Valparaiso, Ind., wrenches off iron handcuffs, chains and manacles as if they were pack thread fetters. The county has expended $80 on irons for him, but he has twisted them all off and is now clear of all clanking adornments.

—The Power Swing, designed to combine amusement with usefulness, by working washing machines or similar light machinery, and at the same time provide a pleasure swing, has been invented in Trenton, New Jersey. Several of these swings are now in use in Philadelphia.

—Driving tandem is described to be the driving of two or more horses, one ahead of the other. It is a Latin word, which means "at length," and has rather a far-fetched application. Now, the horse fairs have a new term, which is "tri-dem," as applicable to three horses. This term is even more forced than the other.

—Anything cool is refreshing in this weather, and the following anecdote from New Orleans is about as cool as could be desired: "A passenger got into one of the street cars and began to smoke. The driver objected, saying this was among the forbidden things, and hinting that if he permitted it he would be discharged. 'If so,' said the smoker, 'I'll engage you immediately.'"

—The reason assigned for Mr. Tennyson's abandonment of his beautiful residence, at Ferrington, Isle of Wight, and his retreat to Hashmere, in Surrey, is, that he was tormented by the obtrusive attentions of the "lion hunters," who hung on his palings, peeped through his gates, and fairly crammed Freshwater Church on Sunday in the hope of seeing how a poet laureate said his prayers.

—At present there are eight benefices in the Irish Church, worth on an average more than £900 a year each, and containing an average church population of more than five thousand souls, whose incumbents are under the protection of the Court for Insolvent Debtors. During the last twenty years a large proportion of deans, archdeacons and other dignitaries, holding large livings, have been insolvents.

—A company has been formed in France which proposes to supply the towns in the south and centre of France with ice from the sides of the Savoy Alps. The principal glaciers from which the supply is to be drawn are those of the Mer de Glace and Bossons. They descend to the level of the Valley of Chamounix, and are the most easily accessible of any in the whole Alpine chain. The ice, transparent as crystal, may be loaded at the foot of the glacier upon vehicles drawn by oxen, and so conveyed to the Geneva railway station.

MIDNIGHT.

THE SURRATT CASE.

Judge Fisher Receives a Communication from the Jury.

ONE OF THE JURORS VERY ILL.

NO VERDICT LAST NIGHT.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, August 9, 1867.

There is no indication of the Surratt jury coming down from their room into Court, or of having agreed upon a verdict. The prisoner was visited at jail this morning by his brother, Isaac Surratt. He is hopeful and in good spirits. He has not been brought from jail since Wednesday.

At 4:15 o'clock, Judge Fisher received a communication from the jury and sent a written reply. The subject of correspondence has not transpired, but as the Judge handed his reply to the Bailiff, he was heard to remark "Tell him I will see about it before nightfall." He then got on a car and started for Georgetown. During the evening quite a crowd assembled in and about the Court room and upon the steps of City Hall, in full expectation of a verdict or some other disposition of the case to-night. The principal theory now is that there is a majority on one side and they refuse to ask to be discharged, but have made up their minds, and are determined to worry the minority out. It is very certain a number of the jurors are very unconcerned about the matter, as this evening they were for an hour engaged in singing a favorite tune. It seems to be "Home, sweet home."

Mr. Birth, one of the jurors, has been very sick all day, but is somewhat better this evening.

At 8:45 o'clock a deputy marshal cleared the court room and closed the doors, it being understood nothing definite will be known to-night from the jury.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, August 9, 1867.

ALLEGED PLOT TO RESCUE SURRATT.

Some of the Washington detectives have reported the discovery of a plot to rescue the prisoner Surratt, which may have had some foundation, but it has been nipped in the bud. It is certain that the hotels in the immediate vicinity of the Court House have been unusually crowded, and that their guests have mainly been Baltimorians, and citizens from the rebel counties of Maryland adjoining the District. A man who has been arrested as ringleader in the supposed plot, asserts that big things might be expected last night, and is presumed to have referred to an attempt to take the prisoner from the guard of four policemen who accompany him to and from the jail, after the reception of the disagreeing of the jury, which was expected to-night. The jail is located about four hundred yards from the Court House, and the avenue leading to it runs through a park, and is lined on each side with rows of trees.

GEN. GRANT AND GEN. SHERIDAN.

It has been ascertained that General Grant has virtually been responsible for the delay in the issue of the order removing General Sheridan, as he has objected to the transfer of officers of the rank required by the reconstruction acts from the duties in which they are now engaged, on the ground that the exigencies of the public service demand that they shall be retained in their positions. It is certain that the President's friends advising him not to remove Sheridan has had some effect, and it is probable that the order may be further delayed; but it is asserted by those who should know, that it will be issued before the 15th inst.

THE SECRETARY OF WAR IMBROGLIO.

The Intelligencer says the statement that the President has ordered no further communication to be held with Mr. Stanton is inaccurate. So long as he is permitted to remain in office, official relations must exist. It does not follow, however, that he will attend Cabinet consultations. These are not held in virtue of law, but are purely discretionary with the President, who is neither obliged to confer with his Secretaries in formal meetings, nor is he restricted to the heads of the Departments in seeking advice upon public affairs. We learn from an unusually well informed source that it is the purpose of Mr. Johnson to allow the whole matter to remain in abeyance for a few days, giving time for reflection on the part of Mr. Stanton and his friends who advise him as to the course he should pursue. If in two or three days he shall still persist in his refusal to resign, the President will suspend him by giving him notice substantially that he is hereby suspended from the further execution of the functions of the office of Secretary of War, and that the reason of this suspension will be submitted to the Senate at the next session of Congress.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON AND LINCOLN'S ASSASSINATION.

Singular Alleged Plot Revealed by Sanford Conover.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, August 9, 1867.

Assistant Attorney General Binckley has furnished the President with an opinion in relation to the application for pardon of Chas. A. Dunham alias Sanford Conover, which is recommended by A. G. Riddle and Joseph Holt, on account of services rendered to the prosecution in the trial of Surratt, and which was evidently inspired by J. M. Ashley. Mr. Binckley gives the petition and also a long letter addressed, subsequently to July 29th, to the President by Mr. Durham, in which he reveals an alleged plot on part of Ashley, Butler and others to implicate the President in a plot for the assassination of Mr. Lincoln, which he says is capable of proof by the most irrefragible evidence. He says Mr. Ashley explained the kind of evidence he thought most advisable to present, namely: that Booth had on several occasions paid familiar visits to Mr. Johnson at the Kirkwood House, that Johnson corresponded with Booth, that the placing of Atzerot at the Kirkwood House was only a sham, though Atzerot was not aware of it, to make it appear Mr. Johnson was intended as a victim, and thus distract all suspicion from Mr. Johnson conniving at President Lincoln's murder; that Booth stated on the 4th of March, to an intimate friend in New York, whom he had endeavored to enlist in the conspiracy, that he was acting with the knowledge of the Vice President, and that it had been arranged to kill Lincoln on the day of the inauguration, which would account for Mr. Johnson's strange conduct on that occasion, and that Mr. Johnson expected the tragedy to be enacted then, and had taken several potations to compose and nerve him for the event. Dunham says he assured Ashley he should have no difficulty in finding persons of good standing and moral character to prove these matters, and that it was agreed he should do so as soon as released. Mr. Ashley and Mr. Butler pressed him to send for two or three persons of intelligence, which was done, but Mr. Dunham being in jail, it was found necessary for some one else to act as their preceptor, which was, with slight hesitation, by Ashley, on Dunham's assurance that the parties were radicals, dyed in the wool, and men of honor, in whom he could safely repose confidence. The statements they were desired to make were revised and corrected by Mr. Ashley, and they were assured by him that in case it should be determined to examine them before the Committee, they should be splendidly rewarded. Subsequently the parties were presented to Mr. Butler, and introduced by him and Mr. Ashley to several Radical members of the House.

Several papers accompanied the foregoing, including some statements about the visit of a Mr. Allen to Richmond by Johnson, though as in connection with Booth, and some personal letters from Ashley to Dunham.

To the Citizens of McClure, Ross, Reserve, Shaler and Indiana Townships.

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE: An association of gentlemen, styled the Board of Trade of the City of Pittsburgh, managed last winter to effect the passage of a law annexing large portions of your respective townships to that city, to form part of it, and to be governed by its laws and ordinances. Your approval of this proceeding was not asked or desired; in truth, it was not wanted, the attempt being made to hurry the passage of the law through both branches of the Legislature before effective objection could be raised at home. Senator Bigham, who introduced the bill, being also a member of the Board of Trade Committee and very jealous in the matter, would have succeeded in forcing its passage, as reported, as but slight, if any, opposition was made to it by the other representatives of Allegheny county. Fortunately, however, the vigilance of a few independent citizens of Allegheny City wrung from Mr. Bigham and the other managers of this most iniquitous proceeding a reluctant consent to insert in the act a provision requiring a vote of the citizens within the bounds of the proposed city, to be taken at the ensuing October election, to determine the question, so that unless a majority of the voters of the district north of the rivers vote against consolidation with Pittsburgh, you will soon find yourselves hampered by city laws and ordinances entirely unsuited to your condition as farmers and gardeners, and country residents.

You will soon be visited by the Assessors who will increase the valuation of your land by dividing it into building lots instead of estimating it by the acre, as heretofore. You will be required to pay a yearly tax of from five to fifteen dollars for each wagon, cart, buggy, or vehicle of any description you happen to own.

You will be taxed heavily for the purpose building a new City Hall and Goal—a special tax of one half per cent. is now being collected by the city, for that purpose—this will go but a short way towards accomplishing it.

You will also be taxed heavily for the purpose of erecting new water works. Located as you are on the hills and distant valleys, they never can be of any advantage to you whatever. That, however, will not prevent your being taxed alike with the persons most benefitted. The City Councils having power, may extend, open, grade or pave a street or road through your land, and at your cost, too, without asking or caring for your approval or dissent. A contractor in want of a good job will have more influence with the Councils or its Committees, than the distant farmer or gardener possibly can have.

You will know by your annual visits to the County Treasurer's office, that your share of the county debt is sufficiently burdensome. Now, are you willing to be united to a city loaded down with a heavy railroad and other debt? Can you be made to believe that you will be kept free from it? Would any man in mercantile life—however shrewd he might be—enough, indeed, to be a member of the Pittsburgh Board of Trade—form a partnership in business with another who was encumbered with an enormous debt? The answer is obvious.

But if all this amount of taxation is not sufficient, and I have not enumerated all to which you will be made liable, you will also be taxed for the purpose—for it is a part of the law—of buying the six bridges over the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers and making them free. These bridges could not be built at present prices for less than two million of dollars—their owners, doubtless, would not sell them for less. The average yearly expenses for watching, lighting, repairing, taxes and insurance of the bridges, is not less than fifteen thousand dollars. Under city control it would be doubled. Scarce a tax payer in your district but would have his taxes greatly increased for this purpose alone, far beyond the amount he now pays for occasionally crossing to Pittsburgh; and then, too, he must be taxed to make free bridges he may never cross at all. Nor is this all. Once embarked in the bridge business, where will be the limit to it. Other localities along the river will demand bridges—at Irwin street, at the Point—the tripartite doubtless will be revived. Vote yourself a bridge will become a party cry, and an additional debt of one or two hundred thousand dollars saddled on the taxpayers for a new bridge by a majority of one vote in the City Councils. If you think this view extravagant, recall to your minds the way the railroad debt of the city of Pittsburgh was fastened on it by the Councils. Remember that if made part of that city your share in its government will be a subordinate one. In fact from your distance from the council chambers you could not be represented at half the meetings, as they are always held at night. What possible interest can you have in the weal affairs of St. Clair, Peebles and other townships across the rivers, or in Birmingham, Temperanceville, or East Liberty? or their citizens in your local affairs. The whole business is foully wrong—it will not bear examination. A large majority of the citizens of Allegheny City are hostile to the whole scheme. They are unwilling to drop the name under which they have grown and prospered, to sink their independence, and become a fag end of Pittsburgh. Do as they will do—go to the polls and vote against Consolidation.

"The South Side Boroughs."

Under this caption one of the "locals" of the Dispatch "does up," most effectually, the boroughs on the south side, to which he gives out he paid a visit on Thursday. Reading his observations one must conclude "Birmingham, South Pittsburgh, and adjacent boroughs," are indeed uninviting places, health and comfort considered. He avers that much as has very properly been said concerning the filthiness of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, the boroughs referred to are "infinitely worse." He first takes exception to the matter of grading, and says "that in some places the grades are steep and precipitous," that "there may be two streets parallel, with not more than five hundred feet between them, and yet, because of the steep grading, a person has to travel almost half a mile in the one before he can cross over to the other." He does not seem to include East Birmingham, but, applying his remarks to Birmingham and South Pittsburgh, which he names, one familiar with the streets of those boroughs will not give the Dispatch man credit for accuracy in his observations. In Birmingham there are no "precipitous" grades. In South Pittsburgh Carson and Bingham streets run parallel, and the few cross streets intersecting them may be "rather steep," but not so much so as that half mile tramp the Dispatch man speaks of. This stretch of imagination outdoes "greenhorn" in the "chimerian darkness" of a coal pit. Beside those "steep and precipitous" grades, he says, there are other disadvantages, "too numerous to mention," but expresses the belief that councils will "before long have to alter the grades," and sagely advises "the sooner the better."

Thursday was hot; it was not agreeable for the "local" to observe whereof he wrote. But it was required of him to "do up" the boroughs, and he set to his task. It is a failing with some of the craft to "pitch in" on all occasions, and the coal pit adventurer, in writing up his South Side trip, gratified this inclination with more than usual recklessness. We sympathize with the Southsiders in their infliction, particularly in respect to their sanitary condition, as depicted by "green horn." Hear him:

"But what shall we say of the foul, dirty state of the streets in general? Of the pestilential odors that arise from the heaps of putrefied vegetable and other matter crowded into their very centres! Of the mounds of dried earth and coal ashes, planted opposite the doorways of the residents! In short, of the hundred and one other nuisances alike disgusting to the eye and offensive to the smell! Can nothing be done to remove those terrible invitations to the awful scourge which there is such alarming reasons to apprehend? Where are the borough authorities, or does there exist no ordinance by which this fearful nuisance can be mitigated?"

Southsiders! will you rest under this withering castigation. As one of them, we say no. The streets of Birmingham may not be kept as clean as they should be, and there may be some filthy back yards, but we maintain that in respect to cleanliness, Birmingham will compare favorably with Pittsburgh or Allegheny. As to "steep and precipitous grades," and half mile tramps to get from one parallel street to another, the assertion is too ridiculous for consideration.

Bigamist Arrested.

George Printer, of Mansfield, Penna., was arrested Thursday evening, at his residence, by officer Sharpe, on a charge of bigamy, a warrant having been issued by Alderman McMasters, before whom an information was made by Hezekiah McDowell, whose sister is one of the accused's victims. It is alleged by the deponent that in November, 1865, the accused, after an acquaintance of several months, married his sister, who is said to be a worthy and estimable young woman, residing in the neighborhood of Wood's Run, with her parents. The marriage was solemnized by a Catholic clergymen in the Cathedral of this city. Shortly aft[illegible] the marriage, the vile history of the husband developed itself in ways too revolting to mention. It is even alleged that he approached a physician, who was attending the unfortunate wife, with offers of a bribe, if he would poison her so that he might be rid of her.

The father and brothers of the wife, hearing these facts, became indignant at the wretches conduct and drove him from the premises, forbidding his return, the wife remaining at her father's house, as above stated.

During the early part of last spring, Printer met the widow of the late Colonel McLain, at the house of a friend in Allegheny, where he formed an acquaintance which soon resulted in a wedding. In March last, He informed the lady that he had engaged a preacher in Allegheny to perform the marriage ceremony. She went with him to a house across the river where they found a man who promptly married them, and they went at once to the lady's house at Mansfield, where they have remained since. Mrs. McLain, the second victim, owns a considerable quantity of property and occupied a high social position in the community, and has a family of several children.

The first wife and her friends hearing of the second marriage, the brother came before Alderman McMasters and made information as above stated. A warrant was issued and placed in the hands of officer Sharpe, who proceeded on Thursday to Mansfield and made the arrest. The second wife was frantic with surprise and grief at the arrest, and refused to believe her husband's perfidy. She changed her mind this morning. The prisoner was lodged in the tombs until yesterday morning, when he was brought before the magistrate for a partial hearing. At the office he was confronted by both the women whom he has so foully wronged, and both detailed their stories. The second wife, on hearing the true state of affairs, as put forward by the first, threw off her allegiance and now expresses herself anxious that the prosecution shall go on. The prisoner, throughout the hearing, maintained a defiant demeanor. At the conclusion of the hearing, in default of one thousand dollars bail, he was committed for a further hearing on Tuesday next.

He says he will be able to clear himself of the charge against him, as the second marriage was a sham, the person who performed the ceremony being neither a clergyman, magistrate nor any other person authorized to perform such a ceremony.

He is about thirty years of age, is of rather fine personal appearance, and is well calculated for the business he has engaged in, having an easy address and remarkably smooth manners.

Inquest Upon a Child.

Thursday afternoon, at the house of Rev. John Stout, on St. Patrick's alley, Eighth ward, a child died suddenly and under circumstances which rendered an inquest necessary, in the opinion of those acquainted with the facts. Coroner Clawson was accordingly summoned and held the required investigation. Albert and Veronica Benoit, married eighteen months, were the parents of the child, born about two months since. The father, from lack of, or irregular employment, or other cause, was earning but little money, and some three weeks ago the wife gave notice that she would leave him and go to her parents, also leave the infant in his charge, as she could not support it, having one child by a former marriage to maintain. Subsequently, however, she took the child with her, and entered suit before Alderman Albertz against the father, for the child's support. It was agreed that the defendant should pay five dollars per week for the child's maintenance. This was not thought sufficient, and another suit was entered before Alderman Thomas. This suit resulted in the father being required to pay three dollars per week. The same evening the mother of the child came to her husband's house, and left the infant, saying she would not keep it and he might do the best he could with it. He took the child to the house of Mr. Stout, and left it in charge of the family. On Monday evening the father and mother visited the child, and when she left, the babe seemed ill. It continued to grow worse until three o'clock Thursday afternoon, when it expired. The people of the house charged the sickness and death of the infant on the mother, and she, on the other hand, ascribed the death to the want of proper care on the part of those having charge of it. At the inquest Dr. Cowley, who attended the child, stated that in his opinion death resulted from natural causes. Drs. Murdoch and McMahon corroborated this opinion, and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

The Minstrels.

La Rue's original Carnival Minstrels continue to draw crowded houses. The audience last night was unusually large and respectable. Mr. De Rue will close his engagement here with a grand matinee this afternoon, and an entertainment this evening, when an entire change of programme will be presented, Hernandez, who has a world wide reputation in his profession, met with an accident while performing with this troupe at Cincinnati, which disabled him for a short time. Having recovered from his injuries, he will make his first and only appearance in this city this evening. The entertainments of this troupe are of a different character from those usually given by travelling companies, being entirely free from that stale, low, vulgar wit, so characteristic of the fraternity. Their jokes and witticisms, while of the most laughable character, are perfectly free from all obscenity; in fact we have seen nothing in their entertainments calculated to "offend the taste of the most fastidious or refined." The music, both vocal and instrumental, is truly excellent, is all new, and rendered in a manner not excelled by any troupe now travelling. Go and hear Fredricks; he is one of the best vocalists in the "business."

Remember the sale of lots takes place this afternoon at one o'clock, by A. McIlwaine, auctioneer, at a few yards from Sharpsburg, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad. A train of cars will leave the depot at one o'clock to convey all who choose to attend the place of sale, free of charge. Such an opportunity for procuring homes on liberal time will seldom or never again occur.

A Model Engine House.

Few organizations in this neighborhood rank higher in the estimation of the community at large than the old and time tried Vigilant Fire Engine and Hose Company. Its membership has ever comprised our most worthy citizens, our leading business men, successful manufacturers, men of genius in the mechanical walks of life, talented and public spirited professional men, and respected clerks. It has ever been cited as one of the few associations in which we centered a large share of local pride, and keeping pace with the growth and importance of the city, the company has steadily increased in membership and usefulness, till to-day it will rank with the first organizations of the character in the country. Its name is synonymous here with all that is commendable, and abroad among strangers it means hospitality. No fire company or delegates from a company have ever come hither from contemporary cities, who have not been made feel the courtesies and hospitalities of the "Vigilant Boys." They keep the latch string always out for the stranger and possess the knack of making all comers feel at home in our goodly old city, and send them away with new born ideas of the social and elevated character of our firemen. This much in deserved praise to our Vigilant Company will serve as an introduction to a brief outline of the great improvements made in their house since last Spring, and which are just finished.

BEST IN THE COUNTRY.

The "Vigy" boys have traveled somewhat, and have had keen eyes for observation. They found abroad palaces devoted to the "machine," which had no equal in this section of the State, and returned home resolved, at one day, to eclipse anything of the character in the country. Through voluntary subscriptions from the members, active and honorary, a large sum was obtained, and the work of transforming the old substantial house into a magnificent one, was at once commenced. As we found it yesterday it certainly excels any engine-house in the country, and will reflect the highest credit upon the taste and liberality of our city firemen. The building is a three story brick, ornamented beautifully on the outside and presenting a neat and chaste appearance. It is situated on the southern side of Third between Market and Wood streets, one of the most important localities of the city. On the first floor is kept the engine, one of the most beautiful and substantial ever manufactured in America; and the neat hose carriage. This main room is broad, airy and commodious, possessing all the accommodations and conveniences which suggested themselves to the intelligent committee having the remodeling of the house in charge. As you enter, on the left are the equipment wardrobes, a continuous row of encased apartments with richly moulded and varnished doors. In the centre of each door is an oval space, forming as it were a frame, in which is fixed the photographs of the members owning or occupying that particular wardrobe. This room is ornamented with choice works of art, in the way of paintings and engravings, and contains marble wash stands, mirrors and other articles of use and adornment. In the rear is the stable, where are kept the three superior horses owned by the company. This is cleverly arranged, combining many new ideas, and we dare say equal to any horse-quarters in use anywhere. The second floor, which is approached by a broad flight of stairs, carpeted with the richest of Brussels, held down by elegant brass rods, is occupied as the bunk room. It is of splendid proportions and is furnished in the highest style of art. It contains six large double beds of magnificent workmanship, highly ornamented, and equipped with bedding good enough for the Sultan of Turkey or any other royal personage. The floor is covered with elegant Brussels, the walls papered in the richest style and adorned with the most costly engravings and paintings, and the furniture throughout of the most approved and elegant character. Here there is an attachment to the Alarm Telegraph, so that the members on duty bunking in the room are promptly alarmed and awakened during the night should their services be needed at a fire. This apartment is the neatest, best furnished, and most comfortable fire engine bunk room in America, and we almost envy the active members the possession of such a luxurious sleeping place. There are large windows in front, which supply light by day, while at night it is brilliantly illuminated by two massive chandeliers holding six burners each.

THE FORAGE ROOM.

This apartment adjoins the bunk room, and in it is kept a supply of fuel for the horses. It is connected with the stable beneath by trap doors through which the feed is supplied the stalls. It is well adapted for the purpose to which applied. The drivers' room, furnished neatly, carpeted, painted and papered, adjoins the apartment.

THE PARLOR.

We ascend to the parlor on the third floor by another flight of broad and well carpeted stairs and in the entrance way find a hat rack, umbrella stand and all the conveniences usually found in a well furnished house. The parlor, or more properly speaking, the reception room, is really magnificent, is grand. It contains the riches of modern furniture, mirrors, sofas, tete-a-tetes, centre tables and all the appurtenances which rare good taste might suggest. A broad, spacious room, well lighted and ventilated, and so elegantly furnished, it is certainly an attractive feature and must astonish the firemen abroad, who have never attempted anything of the kind on so grand a scale. A magnificent square grand Steinway piano, purchased at a cost of nearly one thousand dollars, occupies its place on one side of the room. This is a necessary article for the enjoyment of the Vigilant members, many of whom are skillful players, and all of whom have cultivated tastes and can enjoy sweet music and believe it to be proper in every place.

THE CELLAR.

The cellar contains a water closet, a bath room, mechanical department, and a hose trough. It is lighted by gas, and floored with white pine boards. The hose trough is used to wash the hose after having been in use at a fire. So soon as the hose carriage enters the house, after a fire, the hose is taken off and thoroughly washed in the trough with hand brushes. Each section is then taken to the

DRYING TOWER.

This is built at the rear of the building, and is twenty feet long by sixty feet high. The separate sections are hanged up by means of tackle and permitted to dry at leisure. The hose is thus preserved with good care, and will last much longer than if carelessly used. A huge stove heats the tower in winter. We believe this is the only tower of the character in the country, and the credit of its construction is due to Mr. Robert Elliott, one of the most efficient and never tiring members of the company.

Upon the whole, the Vigilant Fire Engine Company is one of the most complete in the country and reflects the highest credit on the entire city department, and the enterprising members who have defrayed the expense of refitting and furnishing it.

Pulmonary Consumption

Is not an idiopathic disease, but merely a manifestation in the lungs of a general diseased condition of the fluids and supplying organs of the body. This is fast becoming daily more apparent to all close observers of the diseases of the lungs and Pulmonary organs. Dr. KEYSER says that the same morbid condition of the body which produces ulcers on the lungs, will produce them on any other part just as surely, if the part is in a weakened or debilitated state—thus, weak limbs will have ulcerated legs. If the membranes of the throat are over used, you will have ulcerated sore throat, such as singers and those who use the vocal organs much are predisposed to.

Sometimes the disease will manifest itself in the nose, producing usual catarrh with a soreness of the lining membrane of the nose, and an increased offensive discharge therefrom. This is nasal catarrh—a very disagreeable but readily curable disease. DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP will cure most of these cases in the beginning. It will always cure a recent cough or cold. We have known Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup to cure a cold in the head in one night, and it does so by drawing off, by the channels appointed by nature, the morbid matter which causes the cough or cold. The public will be greatly benefitted by paying attention to what we say. The great remedy is to take DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP early in the disease, before the disease is allowed to settle and fasten itself on any vital part. It can be swept out of the system with a few doses in the beginning, but if allowed to seat itself it will take weeks and months to remove.

The cure of a disease is much more easily accomplished at its start than when it has got under way. Like an invading army, a few hard blows in the commencement will stop its progress; but when once under way it attacks and breaks down every barrier, until finally the constitution itself is made to succumb to its ravages. This is plain common sense, and ought to strike every one at the first glance. What is proposed with DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is to cure all lung maladies in the beginning. It will do it with unerring certainty. When they become chronic and of long standing, and when the powers of life are gradually being narrowed into and worn away, then it will take something more of a healing and plastic power to renew and revitalize the blood and establish the standard of health over that of disease. Dr. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is now sold by most respectable druggists and at the proprietor's, 140 Wood street. Consultation and examining rooms, 120 Penn street.

Water, Gas and Steam Fitting.

Among those who have had long experience in the Plumbing, Gas and Steam Fitting business in this city, is Mr. T. T. Ewens, whose well known establishment is located at No. 165 Wood street. He has long been recognized in the front rank of those following the business, and his work has been subjected to the severest tests without taking away anything from the high reputation he enjoys. Practical himself, giving personal supervision and attention to all work entrusted to his care, and employing none but the very best mechanics, he has made an enviable record as a mechanic. He attends to all descriptions of plumbing work, to gas and steam fitting, at the most reasonable prices. Orders from the country districts are promptly attended to, and competent mechanics are dispatched to all parts to execute new work and repair the old. At his store, in addition to a large and carefully selected stock of gas fixtures, chandeliers, pendants, oil lamps, globes and ornaments, will be found a very excellent assortment of iron and wood pumps, hydrants, bath tubs, enclosed wash-stands, sink basins, and everything pertaining to water fixing. For any work in this line we can safely commend Mr. Ewens to the patronage of our readers. Remember the place, No. 165 Wood street, near Sixth.

Killed by Lightning.—Robert Sturgeon, of Union township, Lawrence county, was instantly killed by lightning, on Thursday afternoon last. He was out in the field at work when the shower came up, and together with his nephew, went under a tree for shelter. The lightning passed down the tree, killed Mr. Sturgeon, and stunned his nephew.

A Serious Fall.

Mr. Samuel Drake, a contractor on the stone work of the Third Presbyterian Church, Sixth street, met with a serious accident about nine o'clock Thursday evening. Mr. Drake was coming down the stairs of the building, which are in an unfinished condition, with a bucket of water in his hand, and when within ten or fifteen feet of the lower floor, there being no hand railing to the stairs and no light in the building, he stepped off and fell to the floor with such force as to dislocate some of the small bones in his right foot. He was discovered by some of the workmen who carried him to his house, and Dr. Donnelly being summoned attended to his injuries. Although his injuries are of a very painful nature they are not serious, and the Doctor thinks he will be able to be about in a few days with the assistance of a crutch, so that the progress of the work will not be interfered with.

Natural Law.

Natural Law is defined by Sir William Blackstone to be "a rule of action, prescribing what is right, and prohibiting what is wrong," a definition that has stood for ages and is destined to stand for ages to come. Many of our readers are more interested in matters which come under the head of Municipal Law, which we will not attempt to define, but would respectfully refer all who need legal advice, to Joseph Hays, Esq., at 114 Fifth street. Mr. Hays' legal abilities are unquestionable, and having made the Bankrupt Law a special study, is fully prepared to attend to that branch of the business. He also has the reputation of being a prompt and efficient collector, so that any business entrusted to him will be promptly and satisfactorily attended to.

Abused a Child.

James Campbell made information before Alderman Mullen, of Allegheny, charging Andrew Hillim with assaulting his child, a little boy about six years old. He alleges that Hillim struck the boy and then caught him by the ears and pulled them violently.

Delilah Campbell, wife of the prosecutor in the above case, also made information against Andrew Hillim, charging him with assault and battery. She alleges that the defendant struck her, knocking her down and cutting her face in a frightful manner. He was arrested and held in the sum of five hundred dollars in each of the above cases for a hearing.

The Crops.

The grain crops for the present year throughout the county are said to be larger than for many years; the wheat crop in particular, is exceeding the most sanguine expectations of the farmers generally. There will be a large influx in this and surrounding counties which will have to be shipped, and a wide field will be opened for speculators. Persons having grain to sell will find it to their advantage to consign it to some reliable commission house, and we know of no house in this city or elsewhere that enjoys a higher reputation than the firm of McHenry & Hood, grain commission merchants, 355 Liberty street.

Boy Run Over.

Yesterday evening, about seven o'clock, a little son of Mr. Andrew Gibson, residing at No. 211 Leacock street, Allegheny, met with a very painful accident, which may be attended with fatal results. The little fellow was "on behind" a wagon passing in front of his father's house, and dropped off to run to the pavement as a buggy was coming rapidly in the opposite direction. He was knocked down by the horse, and the wheels passed over his head, bruising it very severely, and lacerating his face terribly. No blame is attached to the driver of the buggy.

Serious Accident.—Mr. Wm. McOwen, formerly residing at 677 Liberty street, was seriously injured Thursday, by being thrown from a wagon. Mr. McOwen was moving his household goods to Duquesne borough, and when at the corner of Liberty and Harrison streets the horses took fright at the cars which were passing at the time, and ran down Harrison street at a fearful pace, throwing Mr. McOwen from the wagon, fracturing his left arm and dislocating his left ankle. The horses ran into a feed store on Harrison street where they were checked. The wagon was considerably damaged and the driver slightly injured. Dr. Herron was called and attended to the injured man, who is doing as well as could be expected under circumstances of the case.

A Bold Robbery.—Robberies are almost an every-day occurrence, in the city at the present time, and the success the thieves are meeting with appears to embolden them, as every attempt made is more daring than the one that preceded it. The boarding house kept by Mrs. Hunter, on Third street, between Smithfield and Wood, was entered by a "sneak thief" Thursday morning, while the inmates were at breakfast, and several of the rooms pillaged. A lady member of the family had fifteen dollars and a pass on the Pennsylvania railroad taken from the pocket of a dress, which she had left hanging in her room. Several of the boarders sustained slight losses. As usual, there is no clue to the thief.

New Counterfeit.—A new and dangerous counterfeit five dollar national currency note recently put in circulation is thus described. On the left end of the note the wrist of the left arm of Columbus is scarcely visible, whereas in the genuine it is distinct. At the top read "This note is secured by bonds." The letters "B" and "Y" are too far apart, and the "O" in "bonds" is under the "Y," whereas, the "O" in the same word is immediately under the "Y" in the genuine. The general appearance of the bill is a close imitation of the genuine.

Alleged Rape.—Alderman Taylor yesterday, in default of bail in the sum of fifteen hundred dollars, committed for a further hearing William Seibert, aged seventeen years, on a charge of having outraged, on the 6th inst., Elizabeth Meninger, a little daughter of Joseph Meninger, residing in the Fifth ward. It is stated that the little girl sustained severe injuries from the violence to which she was subjected. The hearing in the case is fixed for Tuesday next.

Resigned.—James Barclay, Esq., has resigned his position as Cashier of the First National Bank of Franklin. He is succeeded by R. L. Cochran, Esq., late Cashier of the Franklin bank.

Snake Bite.—A Mrs. Vinzier, residing below Newport, Perry county, was bitten by a copperhead snake last week. She is recovering from the effects of the bite.

DIED.

BARD.—On Friday morning, at 9½ o'clock, at his residence in Allegheny City, after a protracted illness, RICHARD BARD, Esq., in the sixtieth year of his age.

Funeral from his late residence, No. 184 North Avenue, Allegheny City, at four o'clock P. M., SUNDAY, August 11th.

He was a native of Franklin county, Pa. He was the son of Capt. Thomas Bard, who commanded a volunteer company, hastily enlisted in his immediate vicinity, and marched them to the defense of Baltimore against the threatened attack of the British. The Captain and his wife being exemplary members of the Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Elliott, of Allegheny, was then the pastor, Richard was early instructed in the principles of the christian religion as contained in the Word of God and set forth in the symbols of the Church of which his parents were members.

While a young man, Richard removed with his parents to Washington county, Maryland. After some years he removed to Bedford county, Pa., (now Fulton.) During his residence there he ably represented that county two terms in the State Legislature. In 18[illegible] he removed to Pittsburgh, where he has been actively engaged in business up to the time of his death.

Few men have left behind them a purer or more unexceptionable character than Mr. Bard. Frank, generous, affectionate without disguise, of unquestioned and unquestionable integrity, he acquired and retained the confidence and respect of all who knew him sufficiently to comprehend his true character. Although not highly educated, he possessed much good sense and clear apprehensions of what was right and proper to be done, and was firm and unswerving in its maintenance. His patriotism was well known. He cheerfully gave three of his sons to the army, for the defense of the national life against those who sought its destruction, one of whom died in the public service.

But the crowning excellence of Mr. Bard's character was that of love to Christ and his cause. Although at an early period of his life he was in danger of being corrupted in his principles and practice, through the influence of gay companions, God was pleased to arrest him on the threshold of danger, and to lead him to Christ. The conflict, as he told the writer, was long and painful, but by the grace of God, he was brought to accept of Christ, in whom he found deliverance from the guilt and the dominion of sin. From that time until he yielded up his spirit to Him who gave it, he esteemed it his highest honor and greatest pleasure to serve the Lord Christ. For a number of years he held the office of Ruling Elder in the Presbyterian church, and was honored and respected by all those for whose spiritual good he labored and prayed. He died as he lived, trusting in the Saviour, whom he loved. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 10, 1867.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

The desperate and almost universal hostility of the wild Indians of the remoter plains and the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains—a hostility which manifests itself in murders, scalpings, rapine and robberies—has become a matter of the most serious moment, and forced questions upon the country which puzzle alike our most skilful soldiers and wisest statesmen. Hardly a week elapses without bringing to us by telegraph brief but sickening accounts of their doings. On the Smoky Hill route, on two occasions, within a single month, the laborers on the railroad were attacked, several killed and scalped, and the rest driven in. Several times the passenger coaches on that route to Denver, have been attacked, robbed, and some of the passengers murdered. The small military escort of a surveying party of the Union Pacific Railway, E. D., was attacked by a strong party of savages in ambush, and driven back, with the loss of one-third of their number.

These outrages all occurred in the valley of the Smoky Hill, in Western Kansas; but within a week the Indians appear to have changed the field of their operations to the valley of the Platte—not to places in advance of the finished and operating railroad, as in the other valley, but to the railroad itself, many miles in the rear of the track layers. Obstructions were thrown across the road, a freight train was thrown off, and then the savages rushed forward, murdered the men in charge, fired the train, and ended the murderous exploit by throwing the mangled bodies of their victims upon the burning cars. This, we believe, is the first time that they have ventured to attack a railroad train; and as they accomplished their object without opposition or loss, it is to be feared that they will become emboldened by success, and that hereafter it will be perilous to run trains up the uninhabited valley of the Platte.

The great question now is, what shall be done, or what can be done, with these wild and roving demons? The government is now maintaining, at great expense, some ten or twelve regiments of cavalry on those plains for the purpose of guarding settlers, travelers and the men engaged in the construction of the two great railroads, against their attacks; but all this effort seems to be of little avail. Regular troops can never bring these wild, fleet and wiley predatory bands into action, and pursuit is equally unavailing. Not in a single instance have our soldiers succeeded in destroying, capturing, chastising or even defeating any of these bands; but in several instances small bodies of soldiers have been massacred by them, or driven back by superior numbers. Indians will only fight where they are sure of victory; and where this is not the case, they scamper away on their fleet ponies and laugh at pursuit.

Indians are at home any place on the plains, and through their scouts they know at all times where our troops are, and where their unprotected victims are, and while they elude the one, they are able, with little or no risk to themselves, to pounce down upon the other. It is impossible for regular troops to fight with such enemies; and to shield from attack all who need their protection throughout the vast region over which these savages roam, is equally difficult.

The recent appointment of commissioners to treat with them, and gather them into some territory reserved for their special use, where they must be sustained mainly at public expense, may be a success; but unless the old system of agents and traders shall be abolished, and the entire management of Indian affairs be given to the officers of the army, there is little reason to hope that much good will arise from the measure.

But there are serious doubts whether the Indians, under the malign influence of the agents and traders, can be brought to terms. The impunity with which they have committed their late numerous depredations, and the few small advantages they have had over our troops, have encouraged them to think that on the plains they are a full match for the whites, and that they can stop the advance of the railroads and settlements into their hunting grounds. The Commissioners may lay before them the alternative of agreeing to their proposition or being exterminated; but with such a notion of their own power and prowess in their heads, what will they care for a threat of extermination?

However abhorrent the idea of a resort to the last fearful measure may be to the minds of the great body of the American people, who are far removed from the scenes of these savage depredations, it is nevertheless true that very many of the people of the border are quite prepared for it. In their eyes an Indian is a murderer, an outlaw, a deadly and irreconcilable enemy, a wild beast; and they talk as calmly of the necessity and duty of exterminating them as they would of exterminating wolves; and they will do it, with or without the authority of the Government, unless these Commissioners succeed in gathering them into some place where they can do no mischief.

But, as we have seen, this cannot be done in the summer season. The winter, when they are shut up in their villages and lodges, is the only time when this dreadful work of butchery could be accomplished. If, however, they can be reached in the winter, why not capture and disarm them, and then oblige them to go to the allotted reservation? This must be done, for we are very sure that the government will never sanction a cold-blooded and deliberate massacre of these wretches; neither must they be suffered to roam at large, as they are now doing, murdering our people wherever they can find them. Nor can a few nomadic savages be allowed to arrest the progress of settlement and improvement on our western border.

Rarely indeed have men been invested with a more solemn and important trust than these recently appointed Commissioners. Their appointment is but an expedient in a desperate emergency. It may be successful; and if it is, let the most rigid and severe rules be established in regulation of all future intercourse between Indians and white men. Let none but true friends of the Indian be admitted to intercourse with them, other than the military officers set over them, and let their sole mission be to lead as many of them as possible to the habits and ideas of civilized life. The game upon which the Indians have heretofore subsisted will soon be exterminated, and they must, if they live at all, draw their sustenance from the soil; for it is out of the question for the government to maintain them as paupers from generation to generation.

THE OLD SLAVE WHIP.—The rebel planters of Tennessee, or Conservatives, as they call themselves, are discharging such colored men as they had in their employ, for voting the republican ticket at the late election. They had better have a care what they do, for there is a movement on foot to confiscate the property of every man who was a rebel during the war, and who now abuses in this way the clemency of the Government in permitting him to retain his estate, which was clearly forfeited, and who now makes it an engine of oppression to loyal men, by discharging them from employment for such a cause. Slavery, as an institution, was swept out of existence by one sovereign act of the nation, but the spirit of slavery lingers long, and can only be killed by compelling it to strike its fangs into its own vitals.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The question of the evangelization of the masses in our large cities, is now attracting the attention of the leading denominations, and some of them are already at work, the main point of difficulty being to ascertain the best mode of accomplishing the work in the speediest and most effectual manner. Time only will remove some of the hindrances or disabilities in the way of reaching the proper system. Among the difficulties is the fact that many lay members, who co-operate with the ministerial missionary, feel some delicacy in being identified with such movements, lest they may be classed with those for whom these special services are instituted. Again many of the worthy poor, whom these mission efforts are intended to reach, dislike to be regarded in the light of beneficiaries. These things can only be adjusted in time. The former should regard themselves as co-workers with the missionary, foregoing for a time the comforts of well regulated church services, in order to promote the well being of others; and those who receive the benefit of these special mission services, should regard them in the light intended by the projectors, to aid in organizing new churches, and benefiting those immediately within their reach, but especially those whose circumstances prevent them from enjoying the advantages of those who live in thickly populated parts of a city, and are in temporal circumstances to enable them to enjoy such blessings. The best course, and one most likely to relieve the friction which often exists in missionary efforts of this kind is, for each large congregation to have a mission chapel under their exclusive control, located at some point on the outskirts of the city. Let a large lot be purchased, of the most eligible character, large enough to build when necessary a capacious church, and if need be, a Sunday School building, and a parsonage. Then send members to take hold of the project, commencing in a small way at first, and in time it will increase as the population augments, so that in a few years a large, vigorous and influential congregation is the result. This plan was adopted in some of the eastern cities, and locations on the verge of the city some years ago, are now in the most thickly populated part, and the property of little value then has advanced to fabulous prices. It is a matter of history the wisdom of the Catholics in selecting sites. The best locations in our cities are generally in their possession, and generally made, too, when property was low in price. Wise not only in point of location, but also in securing adequate space for future exigencies. Their policy is first to secure a good location, then commence on a small scale, and, as time advances and the wants of the Church demand, they are prepared to act as they may see proper. Such wisdom is commendable and is self-evident. We may note in this connection that many of the wealthy members of our churches feel that they would like to do something before they die that would be of a monumental character. Many endow a professorship in an educational institution, to wear their names, others erect some building for benevolent and humane purposes, and others again provide for a niche in some Library to perpetuate their name to future generations. Commendable as all these things are, and should be repeated much oftener than they are, it would certainly be a monument of the most enduring character for a man to erect a magnificent chapel, where the living tide of humanity would enjoy the glorious benefits of the Gospel. We have in our mind many princely givers to religious objects, who deserve just such a monument, and one, too, they might easily erect, and thereby honor God, bless humanity, and bless themselves, while they lived, and their names thereafter would be like "ointment poured forth."

A Spanish Episcopal Church has just been organized in New York city. Nearly three hundred Spaniards, Mexicans and South Americans attended the services, which are held every Sabbath afternoon at Trinity Chapel. The Catholics are talking about establishing a service in Spanish. The Rector, Rev. H. C. Riley, is preparing and circulating books and tracts in the Spanish language.

The Disciples, better known as Campbellites, of the West are discussing the utility of Missionary Societies and Sunday Schools. An elder writes to the Milleneal Harbinger, a man of great influence in that body, that he regards "human learning to qualify a young man to preach, is like parties marrying for property instead of for affection and good qualities." In regard to Sunday Schools he thinks "they have become in the hands of sects, a substitute for infant baptism." The editor of the Harbinger nobly defends these agencies, and expresses great surprise to learn that this elder classes their Missionary Society, with "dancing," "gaming," "horse racing," and other similar works of the flesh. He expresses regret that an old and tried missionary of the cross, and once a most efficient agent of the American Bible Union, should make such charges.

The next annual meeting of the American Board will be held in the city of Buffalo, N. Y., Tuesday, September 24th. Great preparations are being made to accommodate the vast crowd expected to attend this meeting.

Through the generosity, mainly, of Americans, such as W. E. Dodge, Jas. Brown, of New York city, S. D. Warren, of Boston, and others, Mr. Bliss, the Bible agent at Constantinople, has secured fifty-two thousand dollars, surpassing his estimate, to build a Bible House in that far off Oriental city.

Rev. A. B. Earle writes to the Independent, that since his arrival at Virginia City, Nevada, several days previous to the date of his letter, great success has attended the ministration of the Word. He had preached twice each day. On one occasion he thinks at least one hundred persons came forward for prayer.

The venerable Dr. Day, Ex-President of Yale College, near the close of an eventful life of nearly ninety-four years, says he is going on the eight hour principle, rising at eleven and going to bed at seven.

At the laying of the corner-stone of the new Memorial (Congregational) Church at Springfield, Mass., some time since, quite an animated discussion took place between Rev. Mark Trafton, the acting pastor, and Rev. H. M. Parsons, the latter contending that it is a Congregational Church, while the former argued it is not "technically" such. Mr. Trafton was a Methodist minister some time since in the New England Conference, and we believe is still connected with that body in a nominal way—he having retired from the active work of the itinerancy to act as pastor of the congregation who are erecting the new Memorial Church.

It is gratifying to note the liberal responses coming from the churches of the New School Presbyterian body, to the appeal of the late General Assembly for for two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for Home Missions. The wants of the West and South are such as to demand liberal donations, not only by this body of Christians, but from all denominations engaged in Home Mission work. We believe Rev. Dr. H. Kendall, formerly pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of this city, is the chief executive officer of the Home Mission Society.

A correspondent of the London Times writing from Rome, gives a graphic description of the canonization of the saints in that city, last month, in which he represents that during an interval of the grand ceremony, a litany, composed expressly for the occasion, was given by the well-known soprano, Mustafa, in which the names of the new saints were introduced for the first time. To give effect to the music, three several choirs were formed, one of which was placed under the direction of Mustapha, near the high altar; another over the great window, at the entrance of the church, directed by Melizzi; and a third, composed of four hundred voices, in the cupalo, under the direction of Capucci. Such delicious music surely was never heard, as the dulcet tones floated in a series of echoes through the vast building, first rising from earth in a full body of sound, then gradually diminishing in power, though not in distinctness, and then softly breathing forth as though they were angels' whispers.

The claim assumed by the Southern Methodists to an interest in the churches of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the bounds of the Baltimore Conference in Maryland, has just been decided in favor of the latter body. By the decision of Judge Berry, of Montgomery county, Maryland, the property has been restored to the M. E. Church. An appeal can be made to the higher court, but it is not likely the Southern Methodists will prosecute the matter any further.

Reform in Riding Dresses.

No costume more utterly unsuitable for the purpose could be devised than the present style of habit adopted by ladies in riding. They could hardly get a worse habit, and it is cheering to know that they are making endeavors to get out of it. How long will it be before the ladies on the Atlantic slope will follow the sensible example of their sisters in Marysville, Cal.? We quote: "They propose to throw away the cumbersome and horse-scaring flounce, and adopt the Turkish style of habit, use the male saddle, and mount their steeds the same as other folks." And why not? Physicians recommend invalids to take exercise on horseback. But this reader, under the prevailing custom of riding on side-saddles, is quite as much to be feared as the disease, and many of the ladies think they may as well die of consumption as broken backs or crushed brains. The ladies have been taking this matter under serious consideration of late, and have bravely resolved to defy old fogyism and ride as sense and comfort dictate. We understand that a party composed of some five or six of the most respectable citizens are preparing their Turkish dresses, and will be ready to take the air on horseback the latter part of this week. We notice this style of riding is being introduced among the English ladies, and the mothers of Yankee boys should not be excelled by the matrons of old fogy England.

—It is stated in foreign newspapers that "the Russian Grand Duke Alexis, the Czar's youngest son," is about making a tour which will include the United States. It happens, however, that the over-the-water journals are not quite correct. Alexis is the Czar's third son, and has two younger brothers. He is in his eighteenth year, and already is Colonel of an infantry regiment and is also an officer in the Finland fleet. The Grand Duke Alexis will embark on board the Alexander Newski frigate, in which he will visit the West Indies, and thence to the United States, landing at New Orleans, and extending his trip to Mobile. He may be expected in Washington city early in October, and will also visit Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. He will proceed to Niagara, probably in company with Lord Monck, Viceroy of Canada, whose guest he will be during his visit to British North America. It is stated that His Imperial Highness, imitating the example of the Prince of Wales, who visited us in 1860, only as Baron Renfrew, will travel merely as a Russian nobleman of no considerable rank.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE!

Victim of debility, who is responsible for your feebleness? Not yourself, you will say, for you have done all you could to cure it. That's a mistake on your part. You haven't tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Gloomy dyspeptic, with an uneasy stomach and a world-weary face, of course you don't think yourself responsible for your own torments. But you are. It is easy to see from your condition that you haven't tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Billious sufferer, it is not your fault, you think, that your symptoms grow worse day by day. Blue pill doesn't do you any good. Very likely. But you can be brought round for all that. Why haven't you tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

Friend, on whom Fever and Ague alternately blows hot and cold, and whose brain seems to be bursting with the effects of some powerful drug, do you assume the responsibility? O, no! You have taken piles of quinine, and all the requisite medicines. What could you do more? One thing more—the very thing that would have exempted you from all the pangs that now rack you. You have never tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

Nervous invalid, what have you to say? You plead that you have taken all the nervines of the pharmacopœia. If they have done you no good, it is not your fault. You are not responsible. Wrong, all wrong. You have, in reality, nobody to blame but yourself. Why haven't you tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?

For all the above named complaints, the Bitters are absolute specifics.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases, which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully, J—— C——.

Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street, from 9 A. M. until 4 p. m.

Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

HUGH McKELVY, P. M.

United States Court.

Before Hon. Wilson M'Candless.

This Court met Friday at ten o'clock.

VERDICT RENDERED.

In the case of the United States vs. twenty barrels of whisky, &c., the property of Daniel Carnest, of Somerset county, (before reported,) the jury found, that they did not believe the law had been technically complied with, but that the Government had failed to prove any fraud on the part of the defendant, therefore they did not consider the libel sustained.

In two other cases (criminal proceedings) against the same defendant, for alleged violation of the internal revenue law, District Attorney Carnahan declined to press a conviction (owing to the result in the previous case,) and the jury under the instructions of the Court returned a verdict of not guilty.

ANOTHER CASE.

The next case taken up was that of the United States vs. Michael Seibert, of Armstrong county—a proceeding in rem, for the forfeiture of property for violation of the act of Congress relative to distillers, in not giving bond, providing a bonded warehouse, a store keeper, or cistern required, payment of special tax, giving bond, &c. E. S. Golden and J. B. Neale, Esqs., of Kittanning, and Thomas J. Keenan, Esq., of the city, appeared for the defense. District Attorney Carnahan in opening the case remarked to the jury that it was simply their province to pass upon the facts, and not to apply the law. To do more would be to transcend their powers.

After the evidence had been heard on both sides, and the District Attorney had indicated the particular allegations in the libel upon which he relied, or would ask the jury to say had been established, the question at issue was narrowed down to the simple inquiry, whether the defendant had "neglected or refused" to comply with the law, the jury not being called upon to consider whether there was an intention to defraud the Government.

Mr. Golden, however, raised a point which put an end to the case, after it had occupied the attention of the Court during most of the day. The act of Congress requires that proceedings in forfeiture must be commenced within twenty days after the seizure. In this case more than twenty days had elapsed from the time of the seizure until the filing of the libel. The Court held the point to be well taken, the clerk making the following entry in the docket: Jury discharged from giving a verdict in this case and the libel is dismissed at the cost of the United States, the proceedings to enforce forfeiture having been commenced more than twenty days after the seizure of the property.

No other case being ready, Court adjourned till ten o'clock Saturday morning.

Pittsburgh Swindler.

The Philadelphia Ledger of Thursday says: Several of our storekeepers have been recently visited by a well dressed man, representing himself to be from Pittsburgh, and to be engaged in the business of exchanging dry goods, groceries, &c., for farm produce in the country around the Iron City. He would purchase a bill of goods and give a check for the amount, it invariably being drawn for a larger sum than the bill called for, and he would expect to receive the difference in cash. In one or two instances he was successful; in others the storekeepers were credulous, and preferred to make further inquiry before parting with their money. In no instance that has come to our knowledge, were the goods delivered. One of the parties who had received a check on the Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, telegraphed to the cashier of that institution to ascertain if a person of the name of the drawer of it kept an account there, and received an answer that he did not. This method of swindling is not new in Philadelphia. Within the past five or eight years it has been tried by a number of individuals, but rarely with any great success.

The North American describes the individual as an Irishman, nearly six feet in stature, giving his name as David Rankin, and looking "as if he came from Pithole or Oil City." He talked largely of money and claimed to have twenty-five wagons running from Pittsburgh out in the country, trading goods purchased for country produce.

Accidental Drowning.

Michael Dumey, of Henry Clay township, Fayette county, was accidentally drowned in the Youghiogheny river, on the 28th ult., by his horse falling with him. An inquest was held before J. W. Lancaster, Justice of the Peace, and the jury returned the verdict that the deceased came to his death by accidental drowning in the Youghiogheny river. The witnesses testified that he, among many others, went to the river to water their horses in the dusk of the evening, when Dumay's horse reared and threw him backwords into the water, when he was drowned. Diligent search was made, but his body was not found until next morning. The deceased bore a high character as an honest, upright and industrious citizen.

Broke Jail.

On Friday last, says the Bedford Inquirer, two of the prisoners confined in the county prison attempted to escape but were unsuccessful in altogether accomplishing their designs. They thrust the person taking them their dinner into the cell and locked the door. Securing the key, they made their way out through the yard before the alarm could be given. After a lively race they were overhauled by a party of citizens, brought back and locked up in their old quarters. On Saturday morning one of them attempted to commit suicide by hanging himself to the bed post, but was foiled in this by the timely interference of the Sheriff.

District Deputy.—Mr. Hugh D. McGaw, of this city, has been appointed District Deputy of the Independent Order of Good Templars for the District composed of that portion of Allegheny county lying between and South of the Rivers, and has also been appointed public lecturer for the Order in the western part of the State.

Daily Newspapers are now published at Reading, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Erie, Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Williamsport and Scranton. A few years ago the only daily editions in the State of Pennsylvania were published at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 9, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 140¼; Eighty-one bonds, 111⅞; Five Twenties, 1862, 113¾; Five Twenties, 1864 110⅛; Five Twenties, 1865, 110¾; Consols 108⅜; Seven Thirties, 107⅞@107⅞; Ten Forties, 103. Stocks — Erie Railroad, 68½; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 93½; Chicago and Rock Island, 101⅜; Chicago and Northwestern, 45⅝; Chicago and Northwestern preferred, 68⅛; Fort Wayne Railroad, 105; Michigan Southern Railroad, 80¼; New York Central, 104⅛; Reading, 104⅛; Western Union Telegraph Company, 45⅛. Mining shares—Corydon, 1,05; Quartz Hill, 1,90; Gregory, 5,30; Smith & Parmalee, 5,10; Ohio and Mississippi Certificates, 26¾.

Gold opened this morning at 140, and closed strong at 140¼. Heavy shipments of bonds covered a large amount of bills, and therefore the shipment of specie was comparatively light, but the stock of gold held by banks and bankers is gradually diminishing, and if the Government had not sold part of its receipts the market would likely have touched 141@145. Our exports are still light, and, besides, a few ship loads of petroleum, there is no immediate demand for our produce in Europe. The advance of our bonds in London from 71½ to 73¼ gave rise to a great speculative feeling among foreign bankers, 5-20's of 1862, advanced from 113⅞ to 114, and Five Twenties of 1864 and 1865 to 110⅝@111¼ respectively. This afternoon the quotations are lower, and Five Twenties of 1864 have declined ⅜; 1881's, ⅛; 1862, ⅛; 1865, ⅜, and Seven Thirties ⅛@¼. It is expected that after the August Seven Thirties cease to be converted, bonds will decline and money become scarcer; the largest amount of Seven Thirties outstanding and likely not to be converted are owned by a class of people disposed to hoard money, and thus it will take so much greenbacks out of the reserves.

Mining shares are firm, but transactions are light. There is a lively inquiry for Corydon at present quotation, 1,05—this stock having been sold at an average of $2,50@4 during the early part of the season, and is considered cheap at present price; the intrinsic value is about one dollar per share.

THE TRIUMPH OIL COMPANY.—This Company, by common consent, stands at the head of the list of oil companies, not even excepting the Columbia. It has distributed more money among its stockholders than any other similar organization or corporation in this vicinity within the past year, and as an investment offers inducements which cannot be picked up every day. The capital stock is only $300,000 and 150,000 shares, the par value of which is two dollars. The territory of this company, which consists of 213 acres, in fee simple, is located about one and a half miles from Tidioute in Warren county; there are twenty two producing wells and twenty-seven being bored. The company is under no expense in putting down wells; gets half royalty and at the present time, is receiving about five hundred barrels daily—the average yield from the first to the fifteenth of July was 850 barrels per day. The company owns one iron tank of sufficient capacity to hold 14,000 barrels of oil, and has smaller ones capable of storing 6000, making a total capacity of tankage for 20,000 barrels.

In June last, the Company declared a stock dividend of 25 per cent.; in July, a cash dividend of 3 per cent.; in August, 5 per cent., making within three months 33 ₩ cent. of dividends, and cash enough on hand to make another of 5 per cent., and over three thousand barrels of oil unsold. The Company, as will be seen from the above statement of facts, is in a remarkably good condition, and those who are fortunate enough to own some of the stock have reason to congratulate themselves on their good luck.

—The Financial Chronicle lays down the following as true. What is said is not only true, but timely, and ought to be heeded:

"The contracting of the volume of our redundant paper money is an indispensible condition of a restoration of our currency to a specie basis, is now, we believe, universally acknowledged. An over-issue of paper money caused it to depreciate still more, therefore to withdraw and cancel a part of our redundant currency which is outstanding will lessen the depreciation, and will bring the value of the paper dollar nearer to that of the dollar in coin."

But how to contrast the currency with the least injury to business is the great question. Permanent contraction is the only sovereign remedy—not the locking up of greenbacks one week to be given out the next. It will be a hard thing, of course, to pay a debt contracted when greenbacks were low in an appreciated currency, but if we are able to resume specie payments, debtors must regulate their affairs by just such a future as the resumption of specie payments will secure. For safety the Chronicle suggests several years after July, 1868, as the date of specie resumption, and advises that in the meantime what is to be done in the way of contraction should be performed slowly. In this connection we may add that it is generally understood that some expedient will be proposed early in the next Congress for contracting the currency gradually, by methods which will not disturb the money market or produce any unnecessary spasms of instability in the working of our financial machinery.

—A comparison of the statements of the public debt in June and August shows no great changes. Mr. McCulloch's estimates, however, for the fall, show a decided decrease in the revenue, as there is a large matured debt not presented for payment, and much of the revenue has been anticipated in collection. Unless prompt steps are taken to collect the tax on whisky, which should alone give the Government $90,000,000, a serious deficit appears certain. This is the natural result of the action of Congress last winter, in relieving many wealthy branches of industry of taxation.

—Advices from the West say that west of the lakes there has been no rain to injure the crops. The wheat harvest, both spring and winter, is secured in Iowa, Illinois, and in about one half of Wisconsin. In the last mentioned State and in Minnesota the crops are now being gathered the yield being reported to be unusually large, reaching 27 to 35 bushels to the acre, and in some cases 61 pounds to the bushel. On the Michigan Southern and Illinois Central Railroads the crops are already moving. The receipts of wheat at Chicago yesterday were 25,000 bushels, and at Toledo last week 177,000 bushels. The crop movements are already beginning to tell upon the earnings of the railroads.

—A dispatch from New York says that the breadstuffs market continues to decline, the abundant harvests settling the fact that they must be lower in the future. The cable announces that Russia will have a large amount of wheat to spare for export, and if we compete with her in the English markets farmers must get their ideas down. Corn continues to advance, owing to speculative movements at the west.

New York Dry Goods Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 9.—Owing to a severe rain storm the market has been comparatively quiet; yet the prices for all staple cottons are pretty firm, although a strong effort is being made to break the market on certain styles by leading jobbers, but the goods are being withdrawn from sale by all others. A few styles of prints that are relatively too high may recede a half cent soon, but otherwise no reduction can be looked for, as the tendency is toward higher prices ere long, in accordance with the rise in cotton. The quotations for goods generally are unchanged. A few styles are offered by the piece one half cent. lower, but this is no guide. An active trade is looked for soon, and certain styles of woolens are already quite active, such as flannels and fine fancy woolens, which are doing better.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 9, 1867.

The general markets continue exceedingly dull, with but little prospect at present of any immediate improvement. As the impression still prevails, and with good reason, too, that prices must go still lower, both dealers and consumers are buying just as sparingly as possible, and this, while it retards business temporarily, is having a wholesome effect.

GRAIN—Wheat is quiet and unchanged; city millers are paying $2,10@2,15 for Prime Penna. and Ohio Red. Oats steady at 69@70c. on track, and 74@75c in store—for old. Corn is in good demand, mainly for shipment, and prime Yellow sells readily at 98@$1. Rye may be quoted at $1,10@1,15 for new and old. No movement in Barley as yet.

FLOUR—The market continues dull and weak, and with a demand restricted entirely to supplying immediate wants, prices are slowly but steadily declining. We now quote choice old Spring and new Winter Wheat brands at $11@11,25. Fancy brands may be quoted at $14 to the trade, and $15 in a retail way. Rye Flour is quoted at $8,25 for old.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is steady and moderately active but unchanged; we quote at 12¾@13½c for Shoulders; 14½@15½c for Ribbed and Clear Sides; and 20½@21½c for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is dull but firm at 13@13½c for prime kettle rendered in tierces, and 14c in kegs. Mess Pork is quoted at $24. Dried Beef 24@25c—for Summer and Winter.

POTATOES—Continues very dull, though prices are no lower—small sales of prime, in store, at $2 per bbl.

GREEN APPLES—Continue to come in slowly, and with a continued good demand, the market is steady, and prices are well maintained, ranging from $3,50@5,50 per bbl, according to quality.

EGGS—No improvement to note in the demand, and the market is very dull, and fresh packed cannot fairly be quoted above 16c, though some holders were asking 17c.

BUTTER—There is a continued fair demand for prime pail and firkin Butter, and, if anything, prices are a shade higher, sales having been made to-day at 19@20c.

HAY—Continues dull, with a supply somewhat in excess of the demand, which is light. We now quote at $14@18 per ton, according to quality.

CHEESE—Is quiet but steady, with regular sales at 12@15c, as to quality.

OIL—Lard Oil is steady but unchanged at 87c for No. 2, and $1,07 for No. 1.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 9, 1867.

CRUDE—The market was very dull and weak to-day, under the influence of the unfavorable character of the foreign news, and prices are again tending downward. Sale of 2000 barrels for all 1867, buyer's option, at 12c; 2000 do for November, same option, at 11½c, and 110 bbls Smith's Ferry, on spot, at 10½c. Yesterday, there was a sale of Smith's Ferry at 11½c, while, to-day, we heard of a small lot of Allegheny river spot oil being offered at 10½c, bbls returned, without finding a buyer. That the market was dull we heard no one deny, but it may be better again within a very short time, as it is hard to tell "what a day may bring forth", especially in the oil business.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil was exceedingly dull to-day, in consequence of the very unfavorable character of the foreign advices—Antwerp being quoted at 39¼ francs, against 42½ yesterday. Indeed, this sudden and material decline produced quite a flurry, and quite a number of our refiners are talking seriously of stopping their refineries and buying oil in foreign markets. For immediate delivery in Philadelphia, there were offers to sell in Philadelphia to-day at 27½c, which is a decline of about one and a half cents per gallon. For September there were buyers at 30c, and for the last four months, buyer's option, 31c seemed to be about the best offer that could be obtained to-day, against 32½ yesterday, and indeed, some holders in this market would not sell below 33c.

PITTSBURGH METAL AND BLOOM MARKET—WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 9, 1867.

The markets for crude irons continue firm, and, notwithstanding the sales, in the aggregate, are not as large as those of last week, the recent advance is fully maintained. The demand for desirable grades seem to keep up with the supply; while for Foundry irons the demand is quite active, and the supply so far, at least, as desirable brands are concerned, is almost wholly exhausted. The sales reported were as follows:

Potatoes dull, at $2@3 per bbl. Gold 139½ buying. Exchange dull.

But little rain fell yesterday. The weather is hot and dry. The accounts from crops are coming in generally unfavorable. Corn is very backward and is drying up. Many people from the interior, on change to-day, speak unfavorable, and all agreed that anything near a full crop was impossible. The grass is withering and late potatoes a bad failure.

RIVER NEWS.

Capt. John S. McMillan, an old and well known steamboatman, but who for some years past has been on the retired list, was married the other day. Captain John had command of the Silver Wave when she, with others, ran by the batteries of Vicksburg.

John W. Chambers, late clerk of the Belle, has taken charge of the office of the W. A. Caldwell, now at Cincinnati.

The St. Louis Republican says that Saint Louis is now doing more business than all the towns on the Ohio river put together.

Col. Isaac Paist, General Agent of the Atlantic & Great Western Railway and the Diamond Cotton Line, died on Sunday morning, at the Commercial Hotel, Memphis, of congestive chills, after a few days' illness. He had been a resident of Memphis for about two years. Col. Paist was a native of New York, and was about fifty years of age at the time of his death, and had been universally popular with river men.

The Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company have closed engagements for a full complement of pilots for one year, at two hundred dollars per month, or twenty-five hundred for the year.

The Mayor and Board of Aldermen of Memphis, accompanied by a corps of civil engineers, made an excursion trip from that city up the river as far as Island 40, on Monday, for the purpose of examining the channel of the Mississippi, in order that proper steps may be taken to alter the course of the river to prevent the bank near the navy yard from being washed away and the destruction of the public landing.

The Louisville Courier, of Wednesday, contains a very positive article on the conflicting interests of steamboats and barges. We copy one paragraph:

All the disasters of late, have been caused by boats with barges in tow, which makes them very inconvenient to handle or steer, and collisions, or being cast on sand bars, or sunk on snags, are likely to be an every day occurrence. The loss of the Cora S. was wholly attributable to having two barges in tow, and the Mary Erwin sunk at Rising Sun, was also towing a barge. All the boats, just now, are towing barges, attributable to low water, and accidents are multiplying.

The following boats are in port at Cincinnati, laid up: Mollie Norton, General Lytle, St. James, Fleetwood, Starlight, Magnolia, Argosy, Allegheny Belle No. 4, Liberty No. 4, J. W. Garrett, Boaz, Amazon, Ohio No. 3, Emma Floyd, Wild Duck, Kate Putnam, Shamrock, Melnotte, Tahlequah, Bostona, Westmoreland, Emerald, Alice Dean, Golden Eagle, Lawrence, John H. Groesbeck, Sam J. Hale, Telegraph, C. E. Hillman, Sam. Parker, Annie White, Peerless, Belle Collier, Bertha, Lizzie Hopkins, Wauanita, Florence Traber, Mary Erwin, Swallow, Silver Spray, Darling, Charleston, America and United States.

A St. Louis telegram to the Cincinnati Enquirer gives the following particulars in regard to the sinking of the Walter B. Dance:

The steamer Walter B. Dance, which left here at dusk last evening for Omaha, struck a log at the mouth of the Missouri, at two o'clock this morning, which knocked a hole in her hull above the water line, about four feet long and seven feet wide, tearing away her capstan, and carrying into the river a lot of goods and agricultural implements. The goods were in boxes and belonged to the Government.

The same paper also says: There is a perfect hegira of river men from the city just now. A number leave almost daily on recreation tours. They may congratulate themselves on being able to escape the spectacle of utter stagnation in business presented about the river at the present time. We trust they will find matters in this respect much improved on their return.

The splendid light draught steamer Emma No. 2, Capt. Marratta, is announced to leave from New Orleans to-day at 5 p. m. She is the only boat loading for that port.

ST. LOUIS, August 7.—Business still improves. Rates have got so low, however, as to keep many boats laid up that would be running. We are in for a season of competition, which has already mastered the rates of freight. This competition to nearly all points from St. Louis is intensely interesting to the boat owners concerned, but is attended by little or no excitement whatever in port. The river is again falling above Keokuk. The John Kilgour, for New Orleans, got all the freight she wanted. She left in the place of the Continental, of the Atlantic line. The Iron City has been sold to go to Red river. The steamer Walter Dance was snagged above the water line when entering the Missouri last night and returned for repairs. No damage to freight.

LOUISVILLE, August 7.—The river has risen six inches in the past twenty-four hours, and three feet two inches in the channel. A dispatch from Owensboro last night says the New York and the Champion are aground at French Island. The Cora S. has been raised, and is expected to go on the docks at Evansville. Her freight was left at Henderson, and is not damaged. Weather clear. Thermometer 80.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE BANKERS' AND MERCHANTS'
SECOND
GRAND PRESENTATION
WILL POSITIVELY TAKE PLACE
SATURDAY, August 24, 1867,
IRVING HALL, NEW YORK.

This Grand Distribution of Prizes will be Conducted on the Mutual Benefit Principle.

A PRO RATA DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS TO TICKET-HOLDERS!

Capital, - - $1,287,148.

TICKETS, ONE DOLLAR EACH,
And limited to One Million Two Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand One Hundred & Forty-eight.

The Fairest and Most Impartial Plan of Presentation yet Offered to the Public.

A PRIZE WITH EVERY TICKET.

PROSPECTUS.

A number of the leading Bankers and Merchants of New York, in consideration of the great success which has attended many of the Charitable Presentation Entertainments of the day, have organized themselves into a company with the view of inaugurating an enterprise which, while it shall return them a fair profit, shall offer greater advantages to ticket-purchasers than any yet presented; and which, being conducted upon a perfectly legitimate and business basis, shall be free from those objectionable features which have characterized many of these enterprises.

To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets and the registering of the same, to CLARK, WEBSTER & CO., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the grand Presentation Entertainment, when they will be handed over to a committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of prizes.

A reference to the number of prizes and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince even the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the Commercial and financial standing of the company, and the Managers and Bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guaranty of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with the scheme will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket holders will be most strictly watched over and guarded. In fact, it is the desire of the Managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest.
